Chatwin's office

Chatwin is on the far right

Chatwin progressed from boy attendant at the Natural History Museum (1902-11), to Librarian at the Geological Society (1913-19), lecturer in palaeontology at the University of Liverpool (1919-20) and palaeontologist at the Geological Survey (1920-47). In 1975, Kenneth Oakley (one of the team that exposed Pitdown in 1953-55) privately named Chatwin as a possible conspirator, though his views were not made public until 2003.
