Summary

description

English: Figure 33.3. Composite W-E section formerly exposed at Junction 27 on the M8 motorway near Paisley, showing a roche moutonnée (of dolerite) overlain by till which, in turn, is overlain by laminated clay and fossiliferous marine sediments (Clyde Beds) deposited during the Windermere Interstadial. The overlying layer of fine sandy silt alternating with sand probably represents land conditions. The conditions under which the uppermost bed, of sandy clay, accumulated are uncertain. Adapted from Aspen & Jardine 1968, Figure 1.
